Institute of Criminology
University of Cambridge
Cambridge CB3 9DA
United Kingdom

cl948@cam.ac.uk
clanfear.github.io @clanfear.bsky.social clanfear

Charles Lanfear

Appointments

Associate Professor, Institute of Criminology, University of Cambridge
2026–Present

Assistant Professor, Institute of Criminology, University of Cambridge 2022–2026

Postdoctoral Researcher, Nuffield College, University of Oxford
2021–2022

Research Fellow, Nuffield College, University of Oxford
2021–2022

Education

PhD, Sociology, University of Washington, 2021

MA, Sociology, University of Washington, 2017

MPP, Public Policy, Oregon State University, 2013

BA, Sociology, Oregon State University, 2010

Affiliations

Associate, Department of Sociology, Harvard University
Apr 2022–Present

Affiliate Assistant Professor, Department of Sociology, University of Washington 2025–Present

Biography

Charles Lanfear is an Associate Professor and Director of the MPhil in Criminology at the Institute of Criminology in the University of Cambridge and a member of the Project in Human Development in Chicago Neighborhoods. He conducts theory-driven research on how crime, victimization, and social control are related to large-scale changes in communities and society as a whole using methods from econometrics, epidemiology, and demography. This research has been published in outlets including Criminology, Science Advances, JAMA Network Open, and Annual Review of Criminology. Dr Lanfear is also a committed advocate for an open science and a founding member of the European Society for Open Criminology.